Panel discussion: Balancing Safeguarding and Openness in Research: Research Security, Open Science, and Academic Freedom in a Changing World

Join us for a panel discussion exploring the evolving landscape of research security, open science, and academic freedom. This session brings together experts to examine how universities can safeguard the integrity of research while upholding the core academic values of openness, collaboration, and intellectual independence. Participants will gain insights into emerging global challenges and responsible research practices. Information about speakers will be confirmed during the spring.
