

Feel confused?

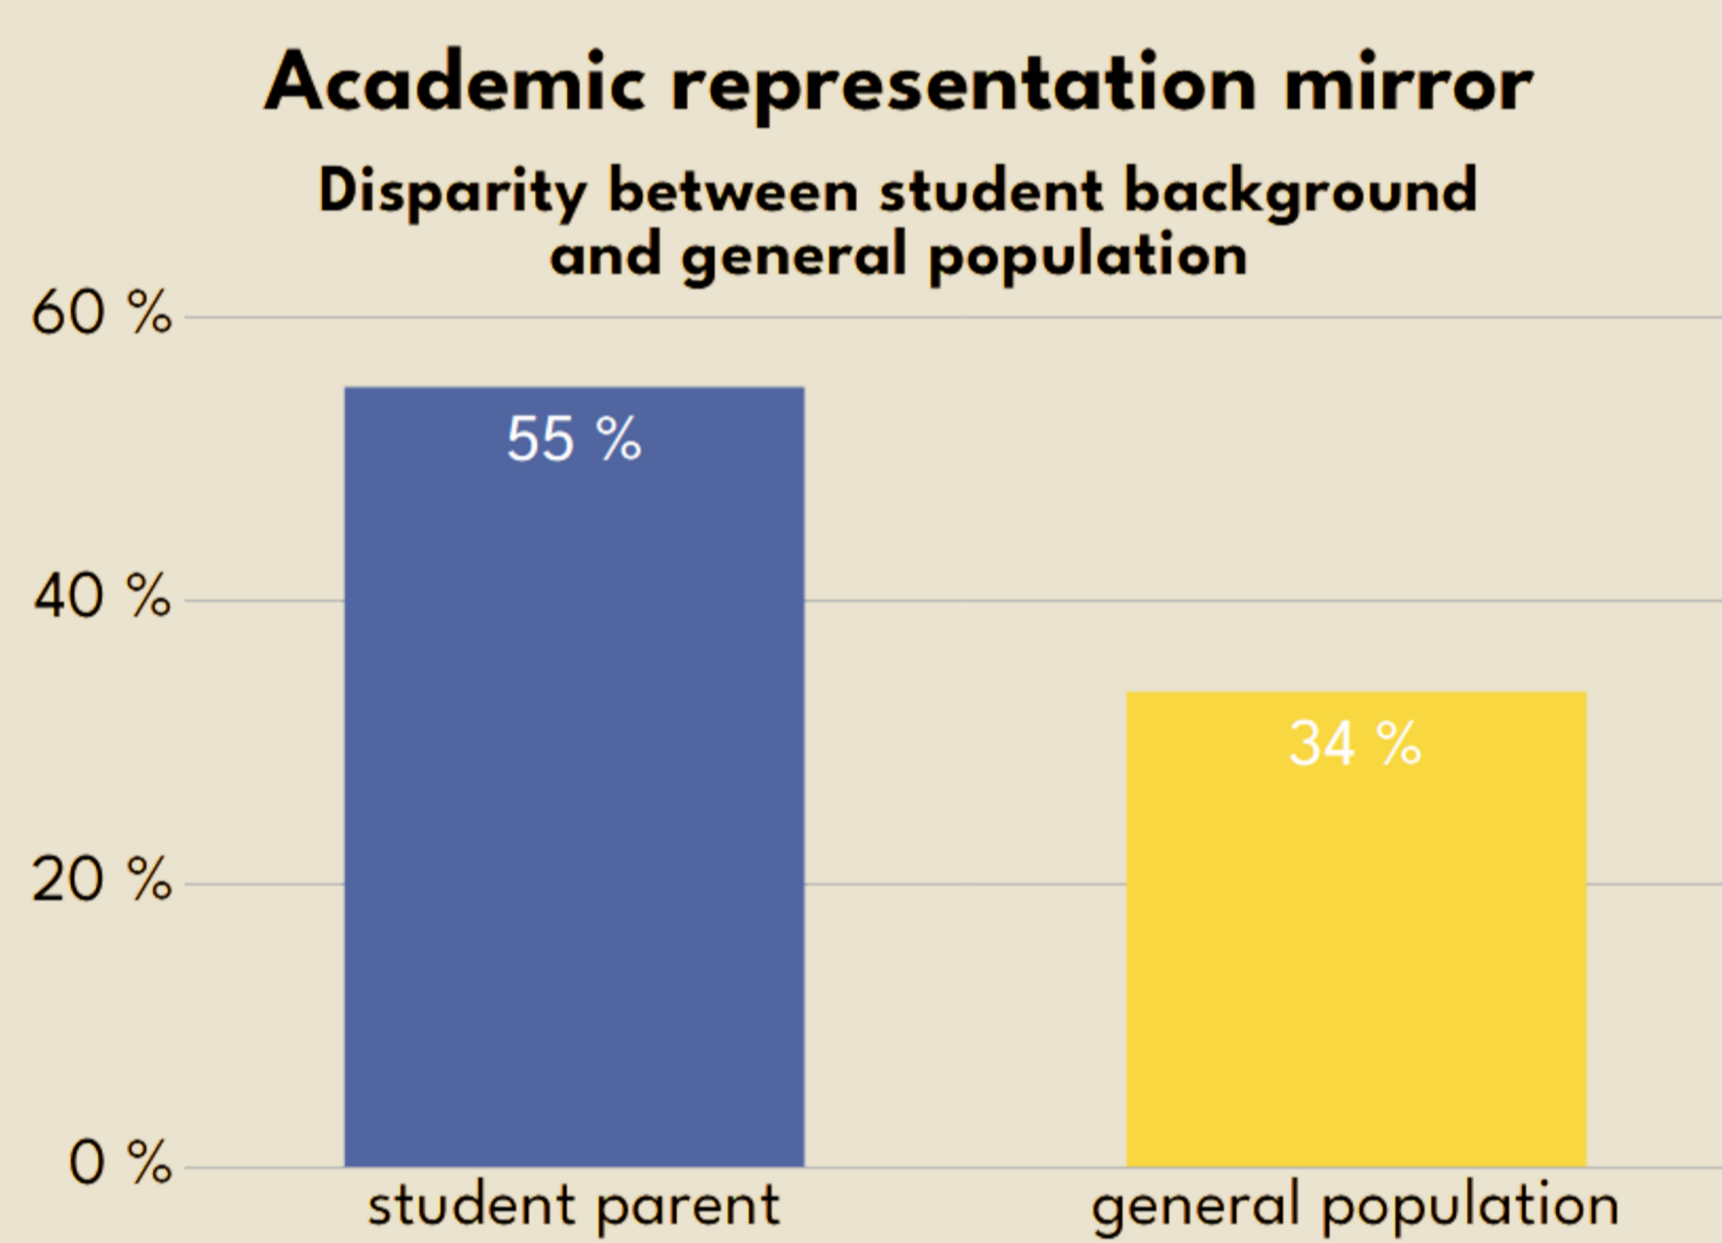

This is how thousands of students feel when trying to access higher education.

Everyone should have the same access to higher education!

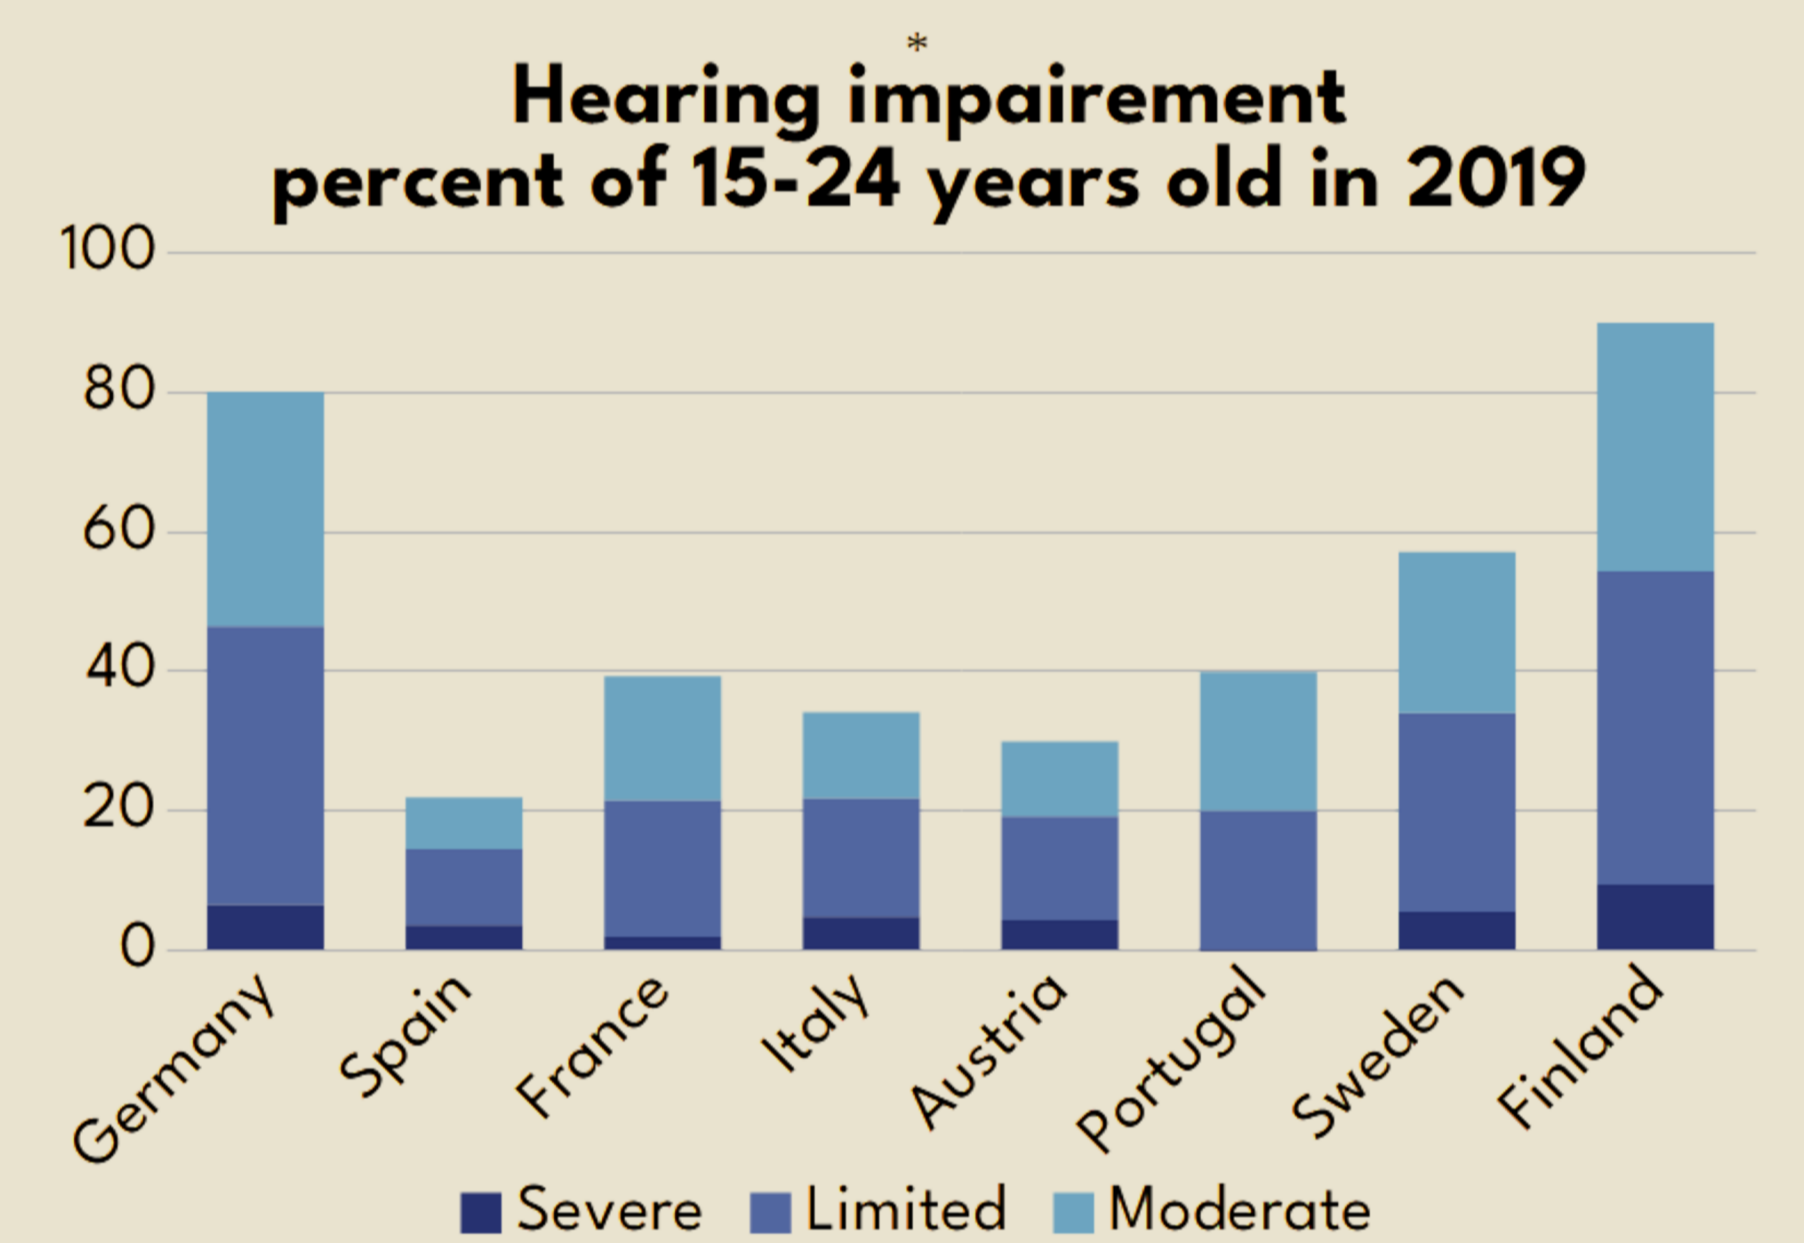

Economic barriers

Students facing socio-economic hardship miss out on key learning experiences and struggle to access essential materials.

Social & cultural barriers

Young people growing up without academic support are less likely to reach higher education and need reinforced guidance.

Digital barriers

Students with special needs miss out on content. Diverse learning styles are not met across universities.

- Enable online access to seminars and courses from partner universities
- Make an active effort to provide equal access and focus on the students who need support
- Exchange our best practises regarding access to education, adressing economic barriers and the educational content
- Content of courses should be inspired by the two-senses principle
